"To Gemma and staff at Booker Flowers, This is just a note to say Thank you! The flowers we had for our Wedding day were simply spectacular. We absolutely loved the bouquets table centrepiece and buttonholes and corsages. We had so many wonderful comments from our guests too. And the style and arrangements were perfect. Just what we had wanted but even better! Thank you once again"

What's Inside

This leaflet has been developed to inform and inspire you, giving you an idea of what to expect before coming for an appointment.

After all, most have not done this before and you have big decisions to make.

Starting with information on what you need to think about with regards to your wedding flowers and an idea on prices with our guideline price list.

The inspiration pictures are aimed to give you confidence in the quality of work, as all photos are from weddings we have created.

Bridal Party

Bouquets - Traditionally held by the bride, bridesmaids and flower girls.
You need to think about...

What shape? - Round / Teardrop / Shower / Cascading

What Style? - Neat / Just Picked / With a bit of Green / Wild and unstructured

If Bridesmaids are having bouquets - are they having smaller versions of your bouquet or something different? For example, if bride has a shower Bouquet often bridesmaid have round or handtied versions

If having Flower girls - are they having mini versions or something different such as basket, wand or wrist corsage?

Buttonholes and Corsages

Traditionally everyone had a buttonhole, but nowadays it tends to be confined to the wedding party.

Buttonholes - Groom plus groomsmen, ushers, dads and Granddads. Sometimes buttonholes are given to ladies where you want them to have a flower but not the full corsage that the mothers have. For Example sisters, aunts and Grandmothers.

Corsages - Traditionally worn by Mothers of bride and groom in a pin version. However, nowadays these can sometimes be wrist or bag corsages. If there are Grandmothers or step mothers in the family, they sometimes have corsages as well.

Church or Wedding Venue

If you are having your ceremony and reception in the same place it saves on cost to get dual use out of the top table and table decorations.

Altar / Registrars Table - this is the focal area when you are getting married. Items used in this area are large pedestal arrangements either side of where the couple stands and registrar table arrangement.

If you are having tall arrangements on your dinner tables, these could be used as pedestals. Your top table arrangement or bouquet could be used for the registrars table.

Aisle - Do you want decoration on the floor or the aisle such as petals or lanterns and / or something on ends of the chairs or pews?

If having low arrangements on your dinner tables, these could be incorporated in your aisle decoration.

Chair or pew decoration can be tied bunches or single flowers.

Reception Flowers

Although venues or venue dressers sometimes do flowers for the reception, we would highly recommend getting your florist to do this as it looks uncoordinated if done by different providers.

Top table - This will be the focal area for the evening. You need to think about if you want something in the centre such as a long and low style arrangement, something that stretched the length of the table or something like jars dotted down then length of the table? Do you want candle light on your top Table?

Tables - Low or high there is no in-between otherwise guests will not be able to see each other. Do you want candle light on your tables?

Low options - Fishbowls / Jars / Lanterns / Wreaths with candles in Centre / Posies

Tall options - Candelabras / Tree Vases / Martini Glasses / Metal Frame / Tall Vases

Reviews

Thank you so much Gemma. Our wedding flowers were perfect. The colours were spot on and the mix of flowers used in my bouquet were fantastic, exactly how I imagined it would be. Not only did everything look stunning, but the scent was beautiful also. A very professional and friendly service. Gemma was always happy to listen to and share ideas. Thank you again so very much.

"The flowers were absolutely beautiful Gemma! And smelt amazing!! Everybody commented on how stunning they looked! Thank you so much for your amazing customer service from the beginning xxx"
Hayley and Andrew

Dear Gemma, Thank You so much for the beautiful flowers, they were the most beautiful I have ever seen and a few people said they looked like they were for a movie! One of the staff and the photographer said they have not seen the room look so nice before! Were so grateful for your help with choosing them and late notice preparations. The day was really lovely and thank you so much for all your help.
